Medieval Francophone Literary Culture Outside France is a two-day academic international conference to be held at University College London, 6-7 June 2013. In nine sessions, we will address the research questions set by the AHRC-funded MFLCOF-project thus investigating how francophone literary texts travelled across Europe (the Low Countries, the British Isles, the Mediterranean) and beyond (the Crusader Kingdoms in the Holy Land). Particular focus will be on the period between the twelfth and the fifteenth century. Keynote speakers are Dr. Frank Brandsma (Universiteit Utrecht) and Prof. Keith Busby (University of Wisconsin-Madison). The MFLCOF conference will be preceded by The Italian Angevins: Naples and Beyond, a one-day, interdisciplinary conference focusing on the culture, history and politics of the Angevin Regno, from 1266 to 1422 (5 June 2013, UCL, Foster Court, 3rd floor common room)
